6 Read Helen’s e-mail about starting college. What is she mainly concerned about?

- a her image and her accommodations
- b her accommodations and her studies
- c her friends and her image

Hi Aidan, Today is my last day in high. In two months I'll be starting college at Stanford. I'm going to find somewhere to live next month, hopefully near the college, although I don't mind being near downtown. I'm not enthusiastic about places near the sports stadium – it's very noisy! Will anyone want to share an apartment with me? There are lots of ads for roommates on the college website. I've written to a few, but I haven't had any replies yet.

I've promised myself a new "look" for my new life. Most of my clothes were bought on sale, so they aren't very fashionable. I'm going to study media, and I'll be taught by some famous journalists, so I want to look modern and stylish. I'm going to wear lipstick and nail polish, and I'm going to change my hair. It'll be dyed red, or maybe black! I can't stand being blond anymore. I might even get a tattoo — I'm not sure. I like some of Lady Gaga's tattoos, but I don't know who they were designed by.

Most people won't know me at college, so this is a great time to be different. Rosa is going to study with me, and she also wants a new style. She wants me to call her "Roz," too, which might feel strange. Luckily, I like my name!

When are you starting college?

Love, Helen

HAY-ON-WYE

Hay-on-Wye is a small town in Wales, just on the border with England. It's surrounded by beautiful hills and farms. Today Hay is known as the "Town of Books."

The man who created this identity for the town and set up the first bookstore there is Richard Booth. He opened a second-hand bookstore in the old fire station in 1961. He bought a lot of books from other countries. He thought that if you sell books in many different languages, customers will come from many different countries — and he was right! Today there are more than thirty bookstores in Hay-on-Wye.

Booth received a lot of publicity in 1977. He announced that Hay was an independent nation and that he was the king. He said that his horse was the Prime Minister! He now lives in Germany, but his store is still in Hay.

In the late 1970s Hay became the world's first official Book Town, and ten years later, in 1988, the first Hay Literary Festival was held. At first it took place in different town buildings, including the elementary school, but now it is celebrated just outside the town because it's too big! It's very successful. Today about 80,000 visitors attend every year in June, and some of the best known literary figures and celebrities give talks. In 2001, the former American President Bill Clinton was the star speaker.
